As we search the future—as far as the mind can comprehend—we envision the wonders of a dramatic new decade. The dazzling new inventions that make living easier and travel swifter may also make more precious those quiet moments of joy that the human spirit has cherished throughout history: a walk in the rain, a dip in the briny sea, the sight of a glowing sunrise, a peaceful hour of reflection. Having reached the moon in the sixties, perhaps in the Soaring Seventies we shall re-discover the earth!

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

To the Class of 1970:

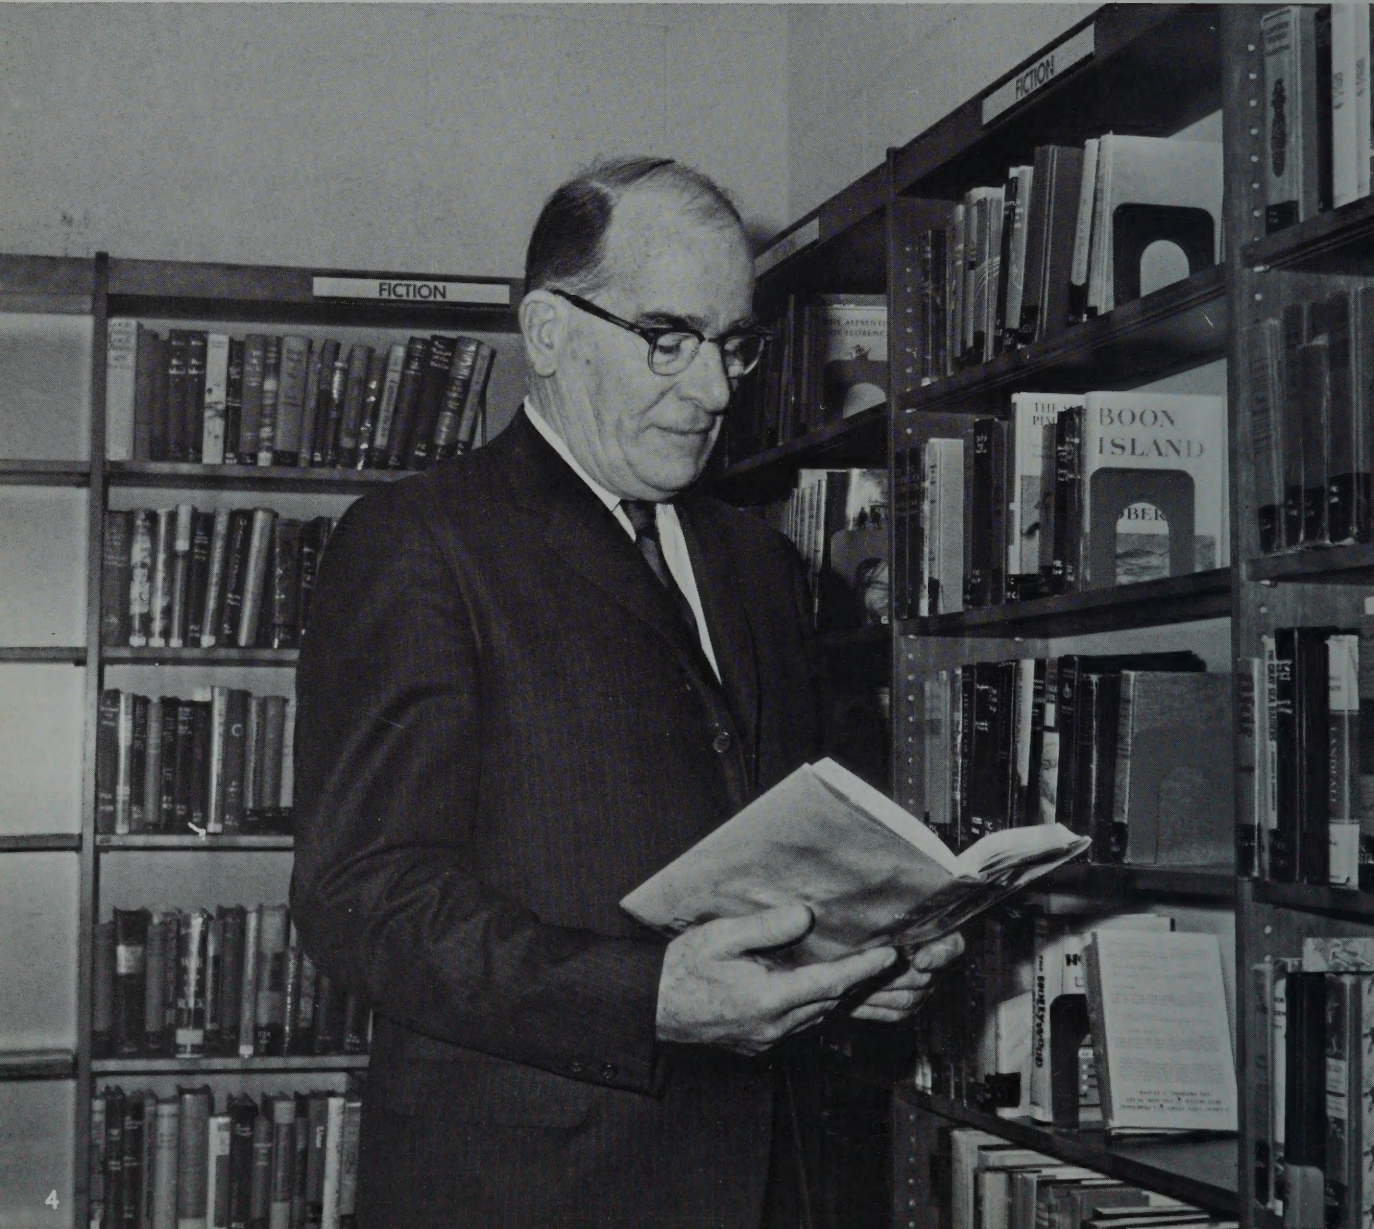

The first big challenge of your lives must now be confronted. Since toddling days your home, church, school, neighbors and acquaintances have given you a measure of comfort, protection, guidance, fun and pleasure.

Now the things of youth will be folded quietly into your memory bank. The Tri-Town will expand into a bigger, more challenging America. Some will continue their education, some will enter business, some will go into the service. For all that long awaited freedom is now yours.

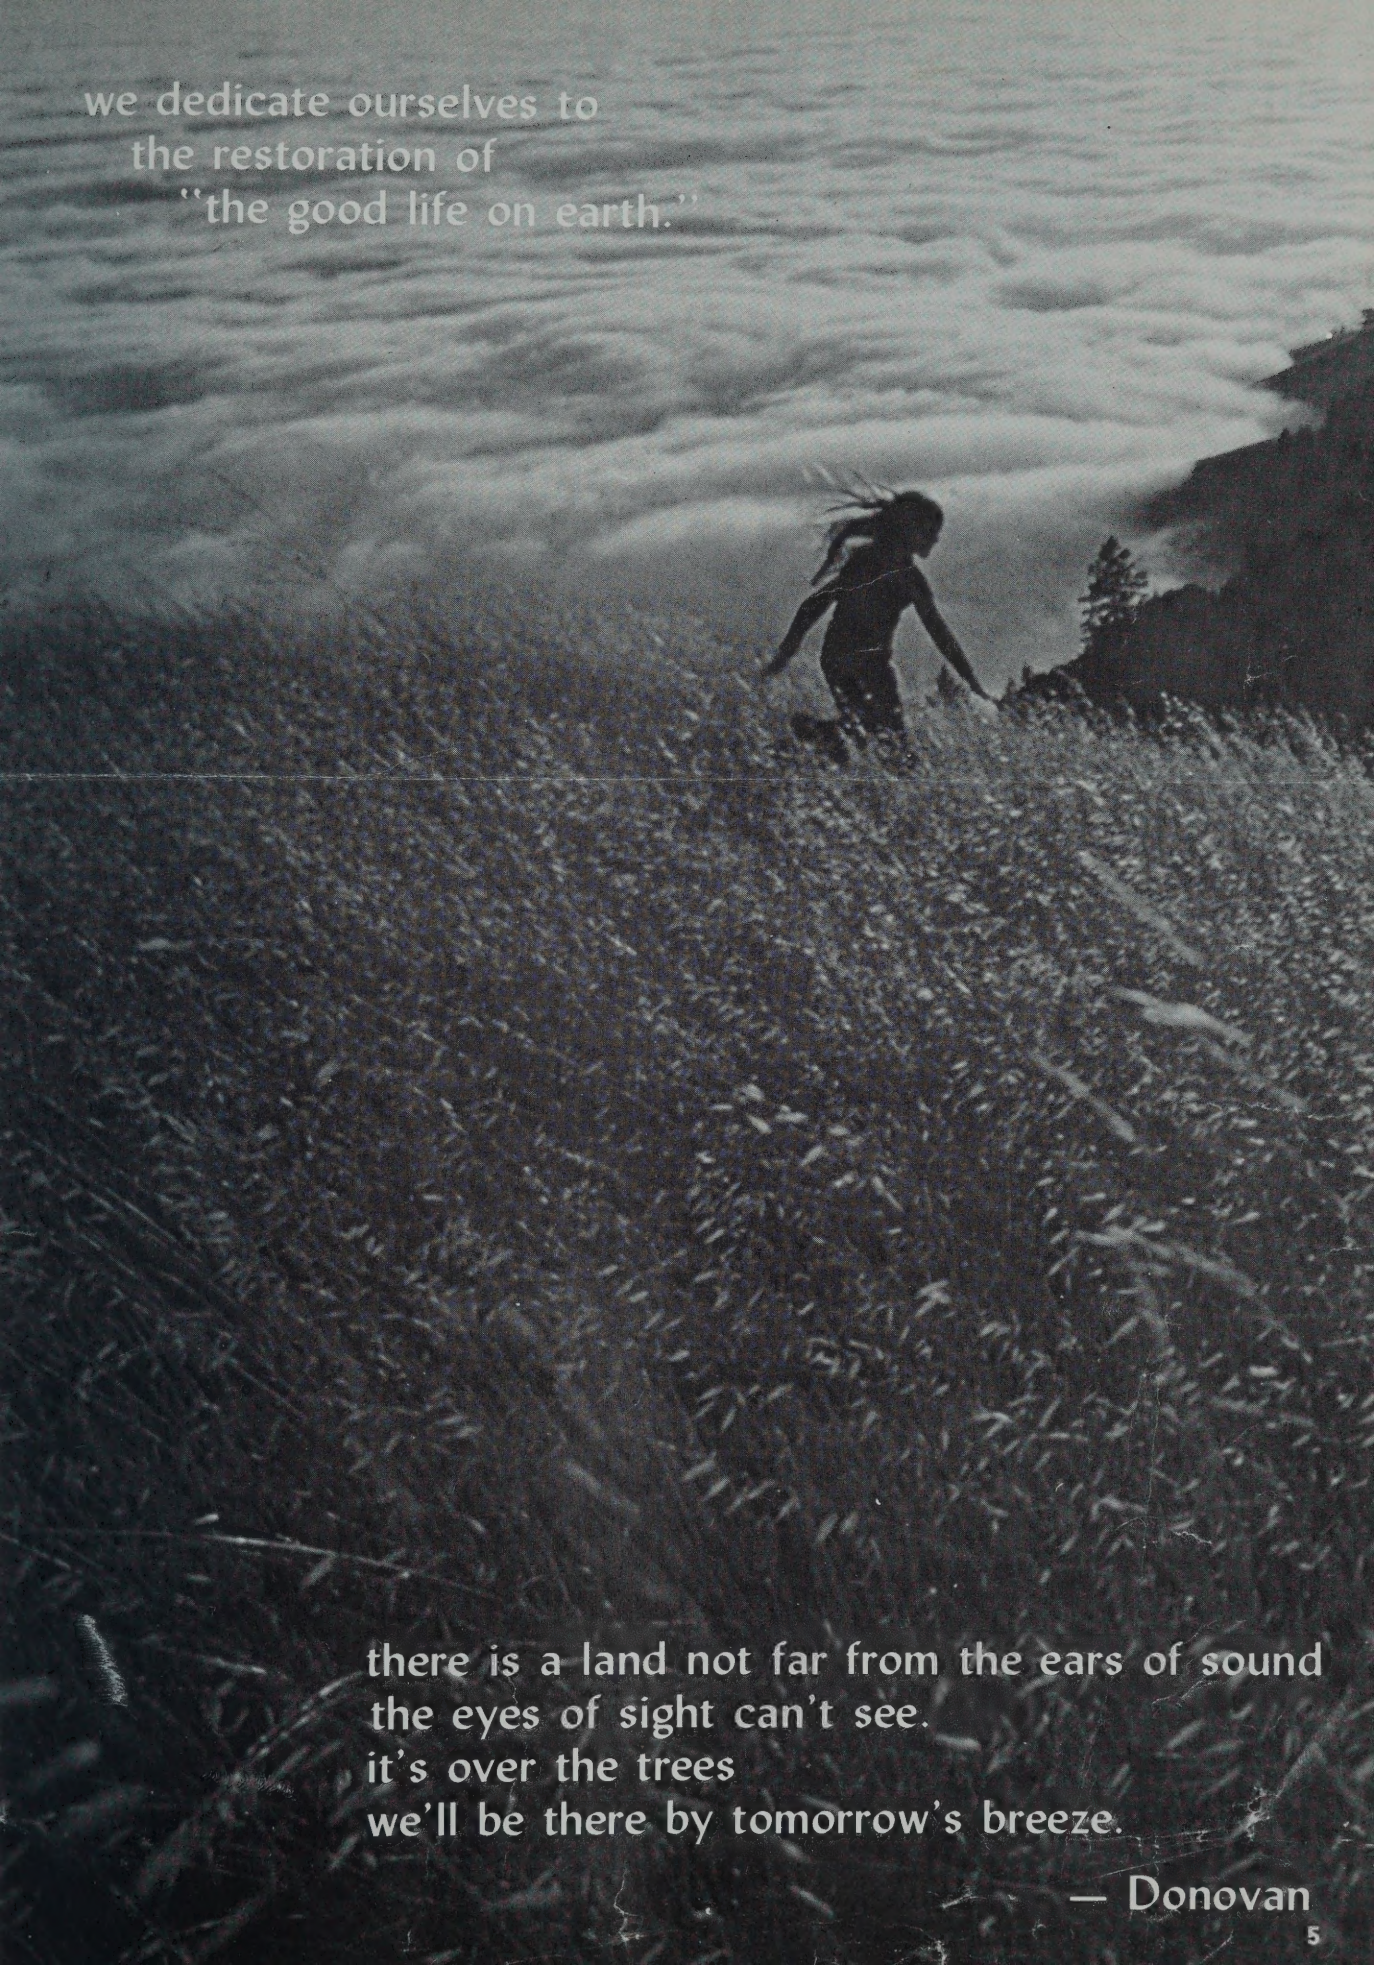

Freedom in a big, wide, wonderful world. Free to go where I want to go; do what I want to do! Free—no restraints, no restrictions! Whoa! let's think as intelligent people. Freedom is nothing without responsibilities. Freedom is earned. Freedom involves more giving than taking. You can only be truly free when you are willing to offer to all men the same opportunities, the same human comforts, the same hopes, dreams and ambitions you personally so earnestly desire.

Work for freedom and the world will be a better place because you have made an effort to improve it.

Sincerely,
John A. Murray

we dedicate ourselves to the restoration of "the good life on earth."

there is a land not far from the ears of sound
the eyes of sight can't see.
it's over the trees
we'll be there by tomorrow's breeze.

— Donovan

The songs, games, and skits, performed "en francais" during the average French Circle meeting enables the pupils to apply their language in a practical situation. By attendance and participation in the club's activities, a student is able to widen his linguistic ability.

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise:

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
 If you can think—and not
     make thoughts your aim;
 If you can meet with Triumph
     and Disaster
     And treat those two imposters
     just the same;
 If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
 Or watch the things you gave
     your life to, broken,
     And stoop and build 'em up
     with worn-out tools:

If you can make one heap of all
     your winnings
 And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
 And lose, and start again at your beginnings
 And never breathe a word about your loss;
 If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
 To serve your turn long after they are gone,
 And so hold on when there is nothing
     in you
 Except the Will which says to them:
     "Hold On!"

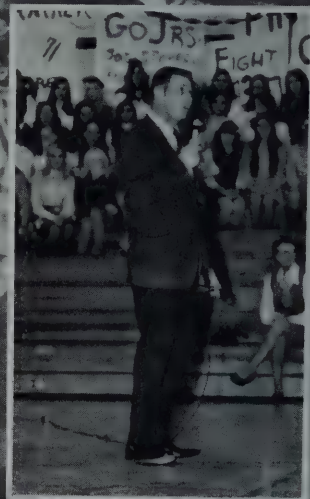

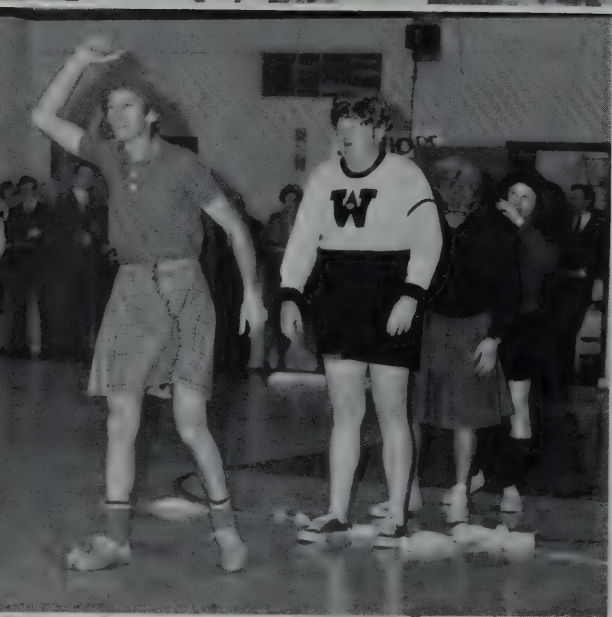

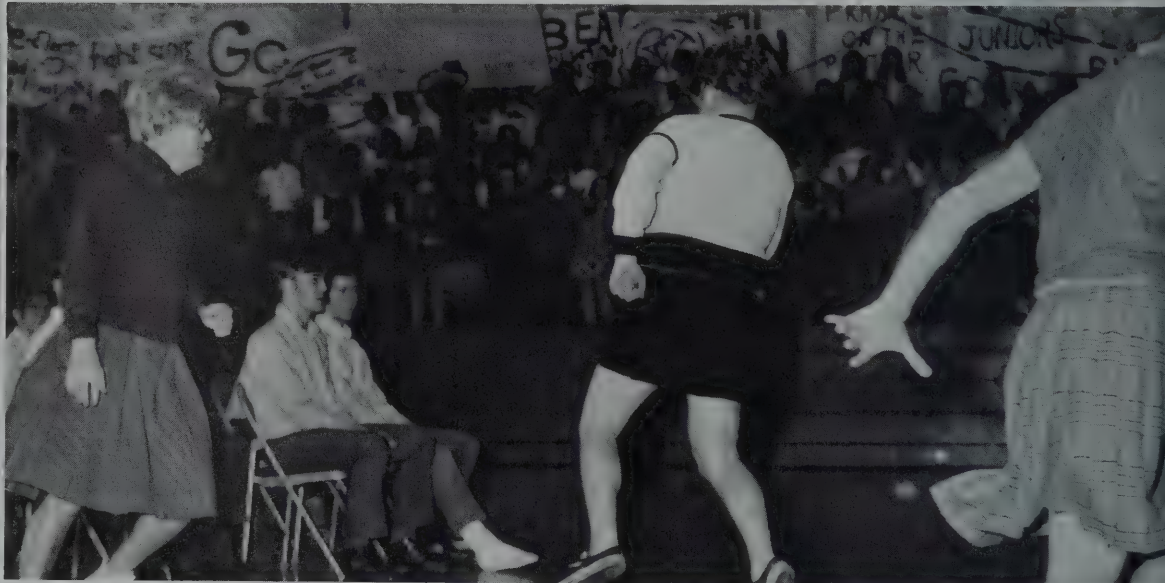

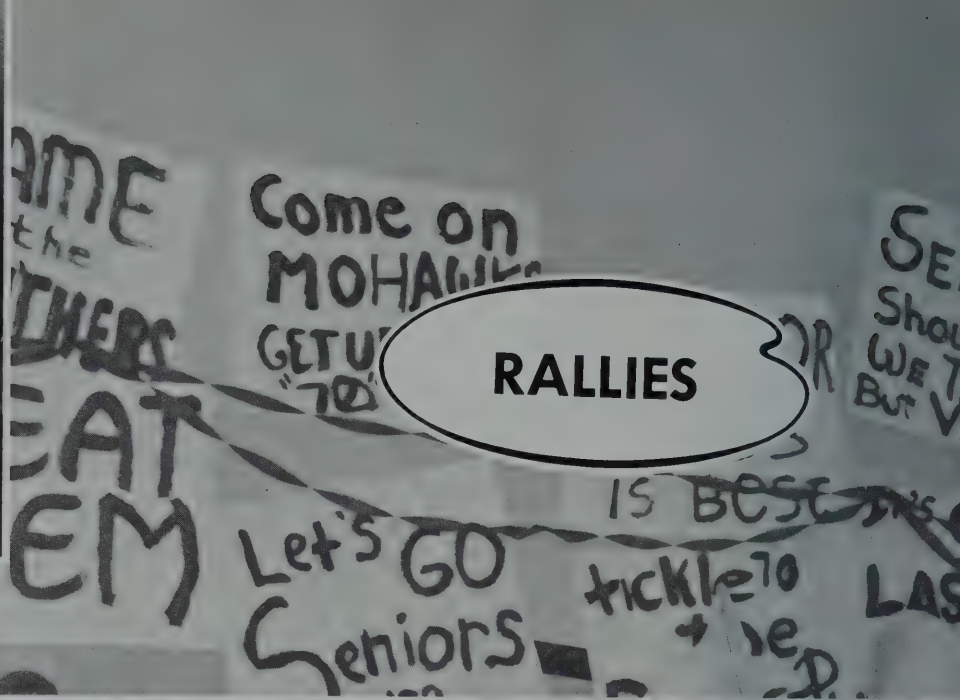

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
 Or walk with Kings—nor lose the common touch,
 If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
 If all men count with you, but none too much;
 If you can fill the unforgiving minute
 With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
 Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
 And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!

Rudyard Kipling

"My Son"

Near the shady wall a rose once grew
Budded and blossomed in God's free light,
Watered and fed by morning dew
Shedding its sweetness day and night
As it grew and blossomed fair and tall,
Slowly rising to loftier height
It came to a crevice in the wall
Through which there shone a beam of light;
Onward it crept with added strength
With never a thought of fear or pride,
And it followed the light through the crevice's length
And unfolded itself on the other side.

The light, the dew, the broadening view
Were found the same as they were before,
And it lost itself in the beauties new Breathing its fragrance more and more.
Shall claim of death cause us to grieve
Nay, let us faith and hope receive —
The rose still grows beyond the wall,
Scattering fragrance far and near
Just as it did in days of yore,
Just as it did on the other side,
Just as it will forevermore.

CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1966, the Class of 1970 came to Abington High School for their freshman year, bringing along with them one of the finest reputations ever acquired. As we came up the walk, we could readily see that the school was already fortified in preparation for the oncoming four years. We really knew we were in for it when Mr. Murray, Miss Crooks, and Miss Glinski greeted us at the door with closed arms. The seniors of '67" were out to show us who was "boss". Remember how they displayed their force by: depanting Wally, sticking Annmarie's head down the toilet, and squishing food in Randy Gauley's face while he was neatly tied down with his tie to the chair. Elected to lead us through this stormy year were: Fred Villa, the only boy with a license; Linda Johnstone, Oh, by the way, Linda, where's the candy machine?; Deborah Conner, who flirted her way to victory; and Sheryl DiGiovanni, whose first trick was to lose the records. We made ourselves another enemy when we refused to accept the advice of our class advisor, Mr. Trimble, concerning class jackets and mottos. Some of the few moments of fun allowed us were the freshman dance, the band trip to Expo, and our one bus outing. In Olie Naks' study halls the first traditional "swapper tournaments" occurred, while back in 110 the intellectual elite of the Class of '70 struggled to survive Miss Glinski's advanced mudpie-making course complete with meandering icing. Also remember: Miss Hawkin's Ladies-Be-Seated Course, the incident in Don O'Mara's room when all the girls snuck out as his mother counted heads, the time Chris found himself firmly anchored to his chair thanks to the skillful knot-tying of Claire, and Dave "the Ram" Wayne. And never forget taking over Janet's house. Although they tried to bomb us three times, the gallant Class of 1970 could not be destroyed as we surged on to our sophomore year, weakened by the loss of Bernard Cohen.

Already feeling confident, the Class of '70 gathered momentum with their mind-expanding trips with glue. Mother Trask had told us of the joys of vicarious experiences, but we insisted on the real thing. Full of determination, we elected Roger Sylvia as President, a strong man in these trying times. To aid him in this fight for freedom were Linda Johnstone, Debbie Conner, and Arthur O'Leary, whose attempts to increase our treasury were continually thwarted at Garrie Dorman's poker parties. On the horizon we saw one ray of hope, one bright light, JOE Palowski's WHITE socks! We had some big splashes this year, such as "BBA" Boyajian's christening of the Grove. Steve always liked being close to nature, didn't you Steve? And Rita's top getting mislaid at the outing. Remember Miss Rodrique and her lunch march?? We decided that Sophomore year could be counted a success after the great car wash. It was a supreme example of class co-operation and teamwork; except for Susan and Michael, who were too busy playing in the sand piles. While the band was at Lebanon the bombing continued but backfired when a riot resulted in the cafeteria, sustained by Lee Jacoby's cake decorations. And again we took over Janet's house.

In September '68 we returned to continue the battle led by Dan Worrall, Judy McGovern, Diane Roan, and Nancy Harris. We now were upperclassmen, ready to take on any challenge from any class. Casualties included: JOE Palowski, Miss Rooney, Mrs. Warzocha, Mrs. Walsh, and Mrs. Rodriques. Mr. Myers was presented with the students' congressional medal of honor and was sent to college. Dissension broke out among the troops as Prom time drew near. The scene of the battle was "MacArthur Park" where sabotage took place on the gazebo. But love reigned in the end as our Queen Diane floated into the sunset and our chairman Linda screamed, "I'll take back my bushes!" Steve Farley's dog sent his heart-felt congratulations to the chef of Monponsett Inn for the fantastically delicious raw cuisine. Can you recall: The Jet Set vs. The Click, Charlie Murphy's first and last pass; he romped five yards and dropped the ball clapping for himself, and Susan Cotta's slip taking a dive. Remember: Greg Winsor directing Mick Duchaney's toboggan team to near death, and the band trip to Canada, and our encounter with partial pressures, term papers, and Jonathan Edwards to Thoreau. Remember: Rick Leary directing the jeep into the woods, of course Michael had to be driving, the day the plants skipped school and went out to lunch at Papa's Gino's, and a certain senior girl getting her nylons ripped off her on a bus trip and loving every minute of it. How about Anna's bomb scare and sneaking cigarettes on the path and in back of Miss West's room? And the squaws following Natty Bumpo up the cliffs and through the mud of Cleve's Pond (on bikes)? And Christmas caroling in "perfect harmony" on Summit Road? And just try to remember something, anything!, about the trips to Horseneck. Of course, one more time we took over Janet's house.

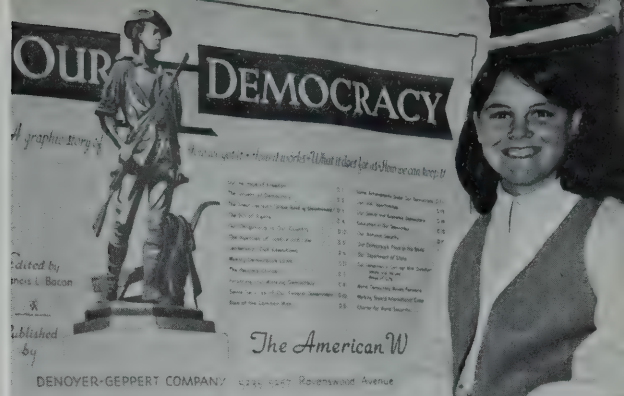

We returned for our Senior Year a little weary, not quite knowing that the worst was yet to come. The administration, alias the welcoming committee, informed us of our new found privileges, like: no fifth period studies, no senior lunch, third floor senior homerooms, senior finals, no senior boys' locker rooms for football, no football field, and the overall happy, free atmosphere. Elected to guide us through our last year were Dan Worrall, Mark McSharry, Debbie Conner, and Nancy Harris. Remember decorating for the Senior Rallies and how much blood was spilt? Remember when the girls wore slacks, and when our love life was controlled by Mr. Reilly and Mr. Paster, right Mark and Janet, Linda and Bobby? Don't ever forget third period trig, and if you can't remember Horseneck, try and remember Sheryl's Halloween party! And for the last time Ware's house was taken over — this time by McSharry. This is our world, a microcosm of the larger world we live in. We would like to recall the following events and happenings that occurred during our four years at A.H.S. which influenced our actions and thought in our everyday lives and in the world today: 1. Vietnam, 2. Drugs, 3. Boston Strangler, 4. Beatles banned from U. S., 5. Red Sox won the pennant, 6. The Pueblo, 7. Assassination of Martin Luther King, 8. Assassination of Robert Kennedy, 9. Resignation of DeGaulle, 10. First Man on the Moon, 11. Woodstock, 12. Arab-Israeli War, 13. Moratorium, 14. Lottery System, and 15. The Turn of the Decade.

So, as our Senior Year draws to an end we are satisfied with the fact that although we could not change them, they could not change us either. We may not have been the most angelic class at A.H.S., but we are confident in the fact that we shall not forget that Latin is a word order language, that we must substitute empathy for ethnocentrism, that vicarious experiences do exist, and that the Class of 1970 will be one that people will always remember.

TOMORROW'S YESTERDAY:

Hard for many to believe, our school day begins bright and early each weekday at 8:00.

By the time we finally awoken, first and second periods have skipped by and we are faced with 45 minutes in the barren activity room study.

For many, this separation from contact with the rest of the school is overbearing, and the library became the haven of many rock-beat fiends, to the horror of Mrs. Reardon.

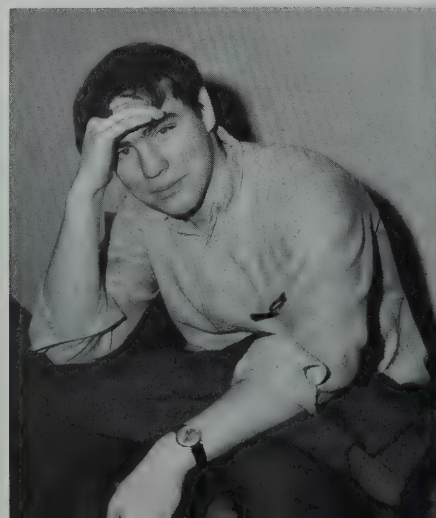

Also not to be forgotten are our constant visits to the guidance office, or all the exciting gym classes, or all the escapes to the Health Room when all else failed.

A DAY AT A.H.S.

Hark! What is that thunder I hear but the stampede to the cafeteria — soon followed by the tinkling of silverware through the ranks of the prisoners.

A typical day would not be complete without the club meetings and sports'
practices.

But, as we ritually pack up our books and coats, there is a sigh of relief, for by some small miracle it is finally Friday
and we have survived another week.
